Join Writer-in-Residence, David Hernandez, in a lively discussion about strategies to get your work published as well as how to deal with rejection.

The Writer-in-Residence Program brings a local creative writer to the department where students can learn from a practicing writer. The Writer-in-Residence serves as a model and "real world" advisor for the ever-growing number of aspiring young writers and adds to the breadth and vibrancy of our creative writing course offerings.

Attendance counts towards the Professional Certificate in Writing and Teaching
